Afghanistan's Trust and Stability Current

In the name of Allah, the Most Merciful, the Most Compassionate

Resolution of the First Congress of the Trust and Stability Current of Afghanistan

(31st of Sunbula and 1st of Mizan 1403 corresponding to September 21-22, 2024, Hamburg, Germany)

Historical experience from the past half-century has shown that monopolization, authoritarianism, and policies of exclusion and elimination have led to nothing but instability and the continuation of violence and the political and social divisions of non-inclusive power structures and governance in Afghanistan.

For this reason, the Trust and Stability Current of Afghanistan believes that institutionalizing mutual tolerance is through cooperation, interaction, and national convergence is the basis of social justice, inclusivity, and the process of nation-building and state-building.

To achieve these important goals and outcomes, the current has stated the following principles:

1. The Trust and Stability Current calls for the holding of a National Trust Conference with the essence and message of „Understanding and National Unity through Dialogue and Negotiation. “
2. The de facto authorities of Afghanistan must pay serious attention to the opinions of scholars, intellectuals, and elites to find fundamental solutions to the current difficulties in the country in all areas, so that a broad-based, nationally elected government can be established out of election, and the cultural values and traditions of the Afghan people are respected in local and national appointments.
3. It is essential to defend the rights and fundamental freedoms, and the human rights of Afghan citizens within a fair and just framework, both nationally and internationally.
4. Eradication of discrimination and the participation of all citizens on an equal basis in the administration and governance of the country must be based on merit, and fairness must be ensured and respected across all sectors.
5. Order and security must be ensured through broad-based national participation and a transition towards a lawful system, establishing political stability, preventing authoritarianism, and guaranteeing security.
6. The Trust and Stability Current of Afghanistan, considering the high walls of distrust built over time, emphasizes the right to free expression by the public, the media, and online activists. It calls for promoting the culture of cooperation instead of using violent and xenophobic language.

7. The Trust and Stability Current is committed to creating a broad platform for dialogue, bringing together all parties, political organizations, elites, and Afghanistan's intellectuals under one roof to end the existing divisions and achieve nationwide agreement and unity.
8. The Trust and Stability Current of Afghanistan, while emphasizing the need for clarity and the assurance of a positive and active neutrality for Afghanistan, calls for the expansion of Afghanistan's regional and economic relationships. It argues that Afghanistan must emerge as a connecting bridge between regional markets by moving away from geopolitical and security competitions and instead embracing regional economic and security cooperation.
9. The Trust and Stability Current is committed to the principles of mutual respect and peaceful coexistence between Afghanistan and neighboring countries. It stresses the resolution of disputes through diplomatic channels in accordance with international rights frameworks.
10. Historical experience has shown that Afghanistan's peace and security are interconnected with regional and global stability. In this regard, the Trust and Stability Current of Afghanistan will seek assistance from international institutions such as the United Nations Security Council, Islamic countries conference institutions, and other relevant regional institutions to establish the fundamental pathways for achieving trust, security, and stability in Afghanistan.
